

About getting scholarships

Every year there is a request for a list of scholarships for deaf and hard of hearing students. While the list is provided, the following should be considered. Just because you have a hearing loss does not mean you will get the scholarship. It really is a subjective process meaning that the applicant has to find a way to make their application stand out from the others to make it to the finals.

Clipart library

This starts way early in the applicant's life before becoming a senior in high school. Being active in school, church and/or community can help you stand out. It also may mean the applicant is involved in county, state, and possibly national and international activities. Start with belonging and being active in clubs and organizations at a young age and this may start with volunteering along with family members.

Examples include the following:

School: Clubs and Teams: Yearbook, Pep Club, Sports, Speech/Debate teams, Drama Club, Book Club, etc. NOTE: If an applicant wants to be involved with sports but does not have the skills, they can become involved with keeping stats or managing for the team.

Church: Be active within the church. Volunteer to help with organizing events, work in the nursery, etc.

Community: Help other organizations at community events (serving food, collecting tickets, helping with walks and marathons, collecting donations, working at town's museums, food banks, animal shelters, etc.) Town celebrations and fairs are a great time to help. Belong to community clubs such as Cub/Boys/Girls Scouts, 4-H, FFA, or other specialty clubs such as model airplanes, baseball cards, coins, saddle clubs, shooting groups, fencing, dance, summer sports, competing in various drawing, writing and speech competitions. etc.

These activities may lead to state and national activities such as competitions, conferences, camps, etc.

The list is endless. Maybe there is the opportunity to participate in something that is unique to your area such as clogging, fencing, tractor pull, mules and donkeys, etc. You do not need to be in the big city to have access to activities that will look good on scholarship applications.

Applying for scholarships is an odd game; the more you apply, the better your chances of winning. Remind yourself the reasons on why you deserve this scholarship, no matter the outcome because. . .

Clipart library

1. I'M HARD WORKING

Why do I deserve this scholarship? – because I'm hardworking! I work hard in school and out of school. I never give up, even when things get tough. I always try my best, and I'm proud of the progress I've made.

Clipart library

2. I'M ACTIVE IN MY COMMUNITY

I care about making my community a better place. I've volunteered at the local library, food bank, and animal shelter. I've also helped to organize community clean-up days.

3. I'M PASSIONATE ABOUT MY FUTURE CAREER

I know what I want to do with my life, and I'm passionate about it. I've shadowed professionals in my field of interest, and I've done research on the best schools for my chosen career.

4. I'M PERSISTENT

A genuine advantage that you need in order to be successful at scholarships. If you apply to a few and then give up, you're implying that you don't deserve to win. Refuse to accept it, and your perseverance may be rewarded.

5. I'M UNIQUE

There is only one of you. This means the chances of someone entering the exact same scholarship application as yours is highly unlikely. It's up to you to find a way to highlight the special qualities you possess, so others see them, too.

6. I CAN OVERCOME OBSTACLES

"Please tell me I can't do something because I'll try even harder to prove you wrong!" Like many other students you know, You've traveled a bumpy road to get to where you are today, but those obstacles gave you strength and helped you appreciate the truly important things in life. Carry your scars like badges of honor!

If you possess these qualities as well, you must do one more thing in order to win a scholarship — APPLY! You can't win if you don't apply, and although you may lose more contests than you win, just opening one "congratulations" letter is so worth the effort and reward.

SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION

Restrictions on Scholarships for the Deaf

The wide variety of scholarship programs dedicated to the needs of students with a hearing loss leads to an equally wide variety of eligibility requirements. Every scholarship program will have its own list of criteria that student applicants will have to meet in order to be considered for an award.

Some scholarships target students who have been deaf since birth, while others address the needs of those with severe hearing loss brought about by disease or accident. Many scholarship programs will require that applicants be totally deaf, while others may make provision for students that have a partial hearing loss. Some are specific to living in a specific place to taking up a particular field of study and having a certain ethnic background. Students should read all scholarship applications carefully in regard to definitions of hearing impairment, requirements for eligibility and deadlines.

National Scholarships for Deaf Students

The following examples are just a few of the many scholarships available to deaf and hard of hearing college students.

Sertoma International Scholarship for the Deaf or Hard of Hearing

Scholarship Deadline: typically around March

The program provides financial assistance to college-bound students with clinically significant bilateral hearing loss. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors, or undergraduates pursuing a four year degree at an accredited college or university. Award amounts vary, and are determined by financial need, academic merit, and degree of hearing loss.

1. The Hard of Hearing or Deaf Scholarship is for students with clinically significant bilateral hearing loss, graduating from high school, or undergraduate students pursuing four-year college degrees in any discipline.
2. The Communicative Disorders Scholarship is for graduate students pursuing advanced degrees in audiology or speech-language pathology from institutions in the U.S. These scholarships, worth $1,000 each, are awarded in the spring to help offset the cost of tuition, books and fees incurred during the following school year.

Tips for Applying for Scholarships

1. Prepare and Stay Organized

You will need to provide multiple documents for scholarship submissions. Don't wait until the last minute to complete applications.

- Double check deadlines/Create a calendar of scholarship deadlines.
- Gather copies of transcripts, letters of recommendation, and audiograms
- Have a list of your volunteer involvement, extracurricular activities.
 - ♦ Family events, church, school, and community, etc.
- Make copies of each scholarship as you complete to make it easier to complete the following scholarships that are completed.

CBS News

2. Request Letters of Recommendations in Advance

- Request letters of recommendation from teachers, advisors, coaches, bosses, peers or others
- Ask the person at least 4 weeks in advance.
- Provide a file of personal information, activities, awards, leadership involvement, etc.

3. Pay Attention to Details and Requirements

- Many scholarships come with extensive criteria that must be followed. It can be how to format the essays, deadlines or required documents.
- Missing one item or presenting it incorrectly can kick you out of the running for the scholarship.

4. Don't copy and paste past essays/information

Judges may still be able to tell that you didn't write something fresh just for them.

5. Know your audience

Research who is offering the scholarship. Know their mission, events, charities, donations, and any additional information that may be helpful. This basic knowledge can help gear your answers toward that organization, which results a more personable piece.

6. Emphasize what makes you unique

Share experiences and activities that make YOU unique. Lots of students participate in sports in high school, but maybe you volunteered to help coach children or started a collection of some kind for charity. Consider what you can say about yourself that most others will not be able to say.

7. Be personal and passionate

Share your stories, feelings and personal experiences. Why are you pursuing the career you picked?

8. Present yourself professionally

Write as though you are speaking to a professional in a formal setting, not your best friend through Snapchat. Try to avoid sarcasm, emojis, text abbreviations like LOL or slang terms like "lit."

9. Always proofread before submitting

Correct any grammar and spelling errors, and double check that you have answered the prompt correctly. Try reading your essay aloud to see how it sounds. Have someone else read through to catch any mistakes.

10. Send a thank you note.

Send a thank you note to the scholarship provider for their time and consideration. The note doesn't need to be too formal, just the gesture itself can go a long ways. Also, thank those people who write your letters of recommendations.

Also check with your school counselors and local/state services clubs. This could be: Lion's Club, Elk's Club, Sertoma Club, Rotary Club, Knights of Columbus, Kiwanas, Optimist International, VFW/American Legion, Moose Lodge, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Jaycees, etc. They have many scholarships that are not necessarily for deaf and hard of hearing students.

The more applications you fill out, the more chance you have to win a scholarships.
